

Hitchcock: Experiments In Terror

We all know that Alfred Hitchcock was the Master Of Suspense, but did you know he was the most experimental filmmaker in history? Contained Thrillers like Buried? Serial Protagonists like Place Beyond The Pines? Multiple Connecting Stories like Pulp Fiction? Same Story Multiple Times like Run, Lola, Run? HITCHCOCK DID IT FIRST! This book focuses on 18 of Hitchcocks 53 films with wild cinema and story experiments which paved the way for modern films. Almost one hundred different experiments that you may think are recent cinema or story inventions... but some date back to Hitchcocks silent films! Well examine these experiments and how they work. Great for film makers, screenwriters, film fans, producers and directors. Films Examined: Rear Window, Psycho, Family Plot, Topaz, Rope, The Wrong Man, Easy Virtue, Lifeboat, Bon Voyage, Aventure Malgache, Elstree Calling, Dial M for Murder, Stage Fright, Champagne, Spellbound, I Confess, and The Trouble with Harry, with glances at Vertigo and several others. Professional screenwriter William C. Martell takes you into the world of The Master Of Suspense and shows you the daring experiments that changed cinema. Over 77,000 words.
